

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A socket structure essentially comprises a socket with a press unit therein, the two sides of the press unit are respectively configured with a first recess and a second recess, and the first recess integrates with a ball, when the ball is placed in
5 the first recess, it protrudes within the power jacks of the socket, when the plug has be plugged in the power jacks of the socket, the ball is made possible to engage with the hole of the electric conduction flake of the plug for fixing the plug without separating from the power jacks of the socket; when the user wants to unplug the plug, he can just press the press unit for making the ball out of the 10 hole of the electric conduction flake of the plug and hide in the second recess, then unplug the plug from the power jacks.